The managerial consultancy service is available via the helpline, with on-site promotional support days, workshops, briefings, and Mental Health First Aid training available - these provide in-depth knowledge of how the EAP services work, helping to create a healthy and supportive workplace environment.

We can provide executive and life coaching support to managers in order to achieve goals and deal with obstacles. Our management advisors have a thorough understanding of emotional health in work as well as managerial requirements, and therefore work with managers to coach them in these issues when supporting their employees.

The EAP service as a management tool

EAP Support

The EAP support service is intended to help you manage your teams more effectively, increasing performance and promoting engagement with the service. Employees faced with personal or work-related issues can often feel unsettled, particularly if they are unsure as to how they should set about resolving their concerns.

This can result in any number of issues, whether it is simply loss of concentration, reduced performance in the workplace or changes in behaviour that may impact relationships with their colleagues.

Spotting these changes in behaviour and performance is relatively easy, but you may feel unsure how to tackle the situation positively, being supportive while still fulfilling your role as a manager.

With the support and guidance of our qualified counsellors, we can assist you to constructively challenge poor performance, behaviour or negative attitudes before they can develop further.

Our main aim is to find a positive situation for both you and your employees. Sometimes it's as simple as reminding the employee of the EAP service provided and the support available. Other times it may involve coaching to challenge behaviour, or dealing with specific performance-related issues.

The service is not intended as a replacement for HR advice, nor a replacement for you as a manager; it is designed to work alongside you, offering services to complement your needs and helping you to support your team.

When to use the service

Often you can spot a problem early within your team members. Their behaviour or attitude at work may have changed, or they may simply not be coping with a job they have always done well. You may be made aware of a bereavement or their worries about a child or eldercare. They could be having problems with colleagues, or struggling with the differing demands of a new job role.

It can be difficult in these circumstances, where performance is beginning to decline, to know how to tackle the issue constructively before it becomes a disciplinary matter. While you want to do the right thing, you don't want to be seen as interfering or overstepping as it's important to keep within your managerial boundaries.

You could be new to a managerial role, or simply have no personal experience to relate to the issues your team is facing, and feel unsure on how to respond to someone else's grief or anger.

This is where the EAP can help

As a first step, you can visit the dedicated online portal www.healthassuredeap.com. If you'd prefer, you can call our counselling team in confidence via the Health Assured 24/7 confidential helpline to talk through some of the problems you may be struggling with, and to discuss the most positive way to challenge your concerns.

The Health Assured EAP works by integrating your organisational procedures, providing an additional source of help in dealing with people issues that you may not have experienced before or may appreciate receiving additional support with.

Online support and our Health e-Hub app

Health Assured offers a dedicated virtual library containing information and self-help guides, accessed via our online portal at www.healthassuredeap.com. They cover a range of wellbeing issues and provide instant guidance and support; helping employees manage their physical, mental and emotional health. Fact sheets, four-week programmes, webinars, wellbeing videos, health checks and regular newsletter articles are available. Your organisation's login details can be found in your EAP welcome pack.

Our Health e-Hub app, available as a free download on iOS and Android smartphones, puts many of the resources available via the health portal into the palm of your employee's hand. It's simple to use, and offers help with a range of issues - physical, mental and financial wellbeing, self-improvement, and lifestyle guidance.

Telephone Support

Experience has taught us that our service is most effective when you speak directly to one of our counsellors. To access telephone support from the counselling team, simply call the Health Assured 24/7 confidential helpline. Explain that you are a manager requiring assistance dealing with a member of your team and you will be put through to the relevant department, where you will be taken through a process of clarifying the problem.

Our specialists aim to support your employee's wellbeing through structured support, paired with encouragement from you as their manager. They will help you look at the options and will work with you towards a positive situation for both you and your employee.

If it helps, they can role-play situations with you, or coach you on behavioural issues. The counsellor/advisor will help you formulate an action plan to improve performance, identifying achievable targets for your employee, recognising practical and personal support that may be required to achieve them.

Once the action plan is started, you can schedule telephone appointments with the same counsellor or advisor to discuss continued support, any progress and other issues that may arise.

Informal employee referrals

If you believe an employee would benefit from counselling, you can recommend the support available to them as an additional source of guidance by reminding them of our service and directing them to the helpline.

Informal referrals are by far the most effective way of encouraging employees to seek support: those who actively address their issues have a greater chance of resolving them. The combination of guidance from Health Assured and managerial support from you leads to a prompt, effective resolution and improved working relationship.

Simply reminding employees that the service is available and educating them on the breadth and variety of support that is available can often be enough to prompt an employee to pick up the phone.

Formal employee referrals

In other cases, it may be that a formal referral is more appropriate. This is something that we prefer to do in exceptional circumstances, and may occur only when all other avenues have been explored. Your telephone counsellor will explore these options fully with you, and can advise on the most appropriate course of action.

There is a formal process for referring an employee which will be explained to you by the telephone counsellor.
